

Whoever believes in Jesus he will have eternal life

With tears I would like to share about my novice, who died on 13th of February after long suffering. whenever I call him dear master how are you please take care of your health even though he is struggling due to his health condition . He was all the time happy and also smiling face.

When he was novice I was so much taken up his way of life. He was man of prayer I could see him he will be praying in the church early in the morning. He is very genuine in all the levels. He is very strong brother and his health condition was very good. He is ever ready to do any kind of work. Really he had passion for the poor especially old people and special people. Whenever I go for mission like Good Samaritan work he will be first at the sometime he was moved with compassion. He never disobeyed me all the time he was very obedient novice. I used to share a lot of things to him because he was very good novice. He never had any kind of sickness. That's why I intent to ask god why it happened for him like this with full of tears.

He is very approachable and available. He is also very attractive person by his way of life as a novice. Some people came to our gpn community as one of the helper. He is very good singer. With my heart I say he is very committed person and responsible person and hard working person overall I am well pleased about his life . He never wasted anything food or anything. Really our divine providence province lost one of the committed priests. I strongly believe that he will be praying for us in heaven. Let us continue to pray for his soul. I also thank almighty god and their parents for giving such a person to our congregation.
